The United Safety Difference

Training and contractor onboarding can be an all-consuming event requiring a major time commitment from your core staff. This is especially concerning in tight-schedule projects such as turnarounds. United Safety allows your people to concentrate on their core activities, while our specialized and dedicated instructors deliver the high quality training you need.

The United Safety team has over 60 years of combined Oil and Gas safety training experience in both the Upstream and Industrial markets. Our instructors have industry specific field experience and all the necessary qualifications to conduct an array of courses. Our passion for training and ensuring your employees are well taught are at the forefront of our all-encompassing and thorough classes.
